What the Auto Industry means to Canada

Direct jobs: 125,400

Export industry rank: #1

- $77 billion in total exports in 2015

Every day in 2015 autoworkers in Canada:

- Built 6,216 vehicles
- Produced $256 million worth of products
- Paid $6.6 million in income, payroll, sales and property tax

The Industry

- Canada is home to five major automakers operating car and light truck assembly plants, including Fiat Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Honda and Toyota. Canada's auto industry also comprises a highly developed parts sector that includes the manufacturers' own in-house engine and transmission plants as well as more than 600 independent auto parts facilities.
- In 2015, Canadian autoworkers built 2,268,996 cars and light trucks (or 6,216 per day) that were sold here at home and around the world.
- Canada's auto industry produced vehicles and parts worth $93.5 billion in 2015, (or $256 million per day).

Jobs and the Economy

- The auto industry directly employs 125,400 people in Canada.
- Autoworkers' paycheques contributed $7.7 billion to the Canadian economy in 2015.
- Major original equipment manufacturing operations are estimated to stimulate 273,200 additional jobs. Including these spin-off jobs, the major auto sector is responsible for more than 314,000 jobs throughout the economy.

National Impact

- The auto industry accounted for $77 billion worth of exports in 2015, 15 per cent of the nation's total.
- Among all of Canada's export industries, the auto industry is ranked #1 (ahead of the oil and gas and aerospace industries, ranked 2nd and 3rd respectively).
- As a crucial source of high-technology investment and productivity growth, the industry boosts our national economic performance. The benefits of the auto industry are felt throughout the nation through supplier links, tax revenue and consumer spending.

Supporting Our Communities

- The industry supports services that we all depend upon, such as health care, education and social services. In 2015, autoworkers contributed $1.9 billion in income, payroll and sales taxes (or $5.2 million per day).
- Most autoworkers own their own homes, and autoworker households also supported $495 million in municipal taxes in 2015 (or $1.4 million per day) helping to pay for local services.
- Autoworkers' fundraising efforts also directly support community organizations such as the United Way, women's shelters and food banks.
